Anuj Saush leads the sustainability research practice for the Sustainability Centre in Europe. He started his career as an environmental consultant, focusing on strategy, innovation, and compliance, and then transitioned into corporate sustainability roles, where he has experience of leading and delivering sustainability strategy, supply chain, circular economy, and social enterprises programs. Anuj’s previous roles include positions at international professional services firm PwC, and with the low-carbon energy group EDF.

Anuj has a master’s degree in environmental policy from the London School of Economics and holds a civil engineering degree from North Maharashtra University in India. He also attended the sustainability leadership program at the University of Cambridge. He is a Chartered Environmentalist and a member of the Institute of Environmental Management and Assessment. He is also a trained coach and is currently pursuing an executive program in behavioral psychology at the Henley Business School.

Contact Carol Courter, Manager, Corporate Communications, +1 212 339 0232, courter@conferenceboard.org
Publications by Anuj Saush

Charts

  04 February, 2020

Director Notes

- Director Notes India: Toward a Circular Economy in India
  02 March, 2020
- Do Indian Consumers Really Care about Sustainability?
  26 November, 2019

Key Business Issues

- Unlocking Growth through Sustainable Innovation
  21 April, 2020
  04 February, 2020
  07 December, 2018

Publications

- Bridging the ESG Disclosure Gap
  03 April, 2020
- Responsible Digital: Extending Ethical Business Principles to Digitalization
  10 April, 2019
- ESG Rating and Ranking Initiatives -- A Necessary Evil?
  17 May, 2018

Research Reports

- Sustainable Procurement: Lessons from Leading Companies
  03 October, 2018